Detailed Action

1. Claims 1-19, 27-42 are pending in this application.

Claim Rejections - 35 USC § 102

2. The following is a quotation of the appropriate paragraphs of 35 U.S.C. 102 that form the basis for the rejections under this section made in this Office action:

A person shall be entitled to a patent unless –

(e) the invention was described in (1) an application for patent, published under section 122(b), by another filed in the United States before the invention by the applicant for patent or (2) a patent granted on an application for patent by another filed in the United States before the invention by the applicant for patent, except that an international application filed under the treaty defined in section 351(a) shall have the effects for purposes of this subsection of an application filed in the United States only if the international application designated the United States and was published under Article 21(2) of such treaty in the English language.

3. Claims 1-19, 27-42 are rejected under 35 U.S.C. 102(e) as being anticipated by Horvitz et al. (U.S Patent 6,980,993), hereafter Horvitz.

4. As per claim 1, Horvitz teaches receiving a notification from a first notification sender (502, 504, 506, Fig. 5, 7; col. 42, lines 19-21); and in response to receiving the notification, controlling the delivery of the notification in accordance with one or more user contexts that have been set by one or more context setters (520, 526, Fig. 7; col. 2, lines 19-24, 48-67; col 3, lines 1-17).

5. As per claim 2, Horvitz teaches that a user context comprises a condition that may be in first or second states, and an instruction that is to be followed if the condition is in the first state (col. 56, lines 31-35, 64-66).

6. As per claim 3, Horvitz teaches that the condition of at least one of the user contexts relates to whether or not the user is at least partially visually occupied, and the associated instruction restricts the delivery of notifications in terms of their visual display (col. 36, lines 48-59; col. 37, lines 19-23, 36-38, 51-53; col. 55, lines 38-45).

7. As per claim 4, Horvitz teaches that the condition of at least one of the user contexts relates to whether or not the user is at least partially occupied by sound, and the associated instruction restricts the delivery of notifications in terms of their volume (col. 57, lines 11-52).

8. As per claim 5, Horvitz teaches that a plurality of user contexts that are associated with a specified user are set by a plurality of context setters (col. 48, lines 49, 56-57).

9. As per claim 10, Horvitz teaches that the condition of at least one user context relates to whether or not the user is unavailable for receiving notifications of any kind, and the associated instruction restricts the delivery of notifications altogether (col. 56, lines 31-35).

10. As per claim 11, Horvitz teaches that at least one of the context setters is an operating system (col. 3, lines 1-5).

11. As per claim 12, Horvitz teaches that at least one of the context setters is a program other than an operating system (col. 3, lines 1-5).

12. As per claim 13, Horvitz teaches that a set of rules are defined by a user to dictate how notifications that contain at least a first specified element should be delivered (col. 45, lines 1-10).

13. As per claim 16, Horvitz teaches that the instruction of the user context may indicate that selected notifications should be at least one of routed, denied, deferred, or delivered (col. 56, lines 31-35).

14. As per claims 6, 14, 27, they are rejected for the same reasons as claim 1 above.

15. As per claims 7, 15, 28, they are rejected for the same reasons as claim 2 above.

16. As per claims 8, 17, 29, 37-38, they are rejected for the same reasons as claim 3 above.

17. As per claims 9, 30, 39-42 they are rejected for the same reasons as claim 4 above.

18. As per claims 33, 34, they are rejected for the same reasons as claims 1, 3, 4 above.

19. As per claims 18, 32, they are rejected for the same reasons as claim 5 above.

20. As per claim 31, it is rejected for the same reasons as claim 10 above.

21. As per claims 19, it is rejected for the same reasons as claim 13 above.

22. As per claim 35, it is rejected for the same reasons as claim 16 above.

23. As per claim 36, Horvitz teaches establishing a plurality of user-defined conditional rules for handling incoming notifications, said rules identifying a state of computer system resources and one or more permissible notification actions based on said state of computer system resources (col. 44, lines 45-50; col. 45, lines 1-10; col. 48, lines 49, 56-57).

providing a plurality of application program interfaces for requesting notifications to a computer user, wherein a first of said interfaces is offered as part of a system shell and results in a notification to said user in response to being called (506, Fig. 7; col. 3, lines 1-17), and wherein a call using a second one of said interfaces does not result in a notification to said user in response to said call, but results in a response identifying a context of said user (514, 706, Fig. 7, 8; col. 48, lines 45-59; col. 57, lines 53-67; col. 58, lines 1-24); and in response to a call made using said first interface, applying one or more of said rules to provide a notification to said user (col. 58, lines 17-24).
